

Memo

To: All Parents
From: Tim Mendel
Date: December 21, 2018

You may be aware of a recent Facebook post by a parent from Taylor School who said that her child was being taught in a storage closet. As many of you are aware, Taylor School does not have any spare classrooms. This creates a challenge when educational assistants need to work with students one on one, either to deliver a program, help a student complete work, calm a student down who is elevated, etc. The school has created a few small work areas throughout the school. Each day students and Educational Assistants use these work areas. Students are only in these areas for a short period and then they return to their classroom. Nobody has a storage closet for his or her homeroom classroom. Your children are our children. We work very hard to make sure they have a positive educational experience.

A friendly reminder, just because someone posts something, does not make it true. There is often another side to the story. It is always a good idea to get all the facts before commenting or forwarding the post. Have a great Christmas!

If you have any questions about this please feel free to call me at 204-734-4531 or my cell 204-281-1521.

T.M.